Baby Flash Cards, $12.95, Wee Gallery

What Happens

This set of six cards has high-contrast black-and-white animal prints on them.

What Works

The company claims babies can distinguish high-contrast patterns. So we tested them on a 5-month-old. She loved them. No, we mean she really loved them. She would follow them if they were moved.

What Doesn't Work

An 18-month-old also loved the cards, carrying them around and returning to them repeatedly. The only complaint the mothers had? They wished there were more than six cards in the set.

What You'll Get

Six cards - a cat, elephant, fish, giraffe, owl and snail - on 5-inch by 7-inch book board material. Other items include wall graphics (stick on, peel off) available in the elephant and giraffe patterns for $35.
